

From the rector

As I read Catherine's acceptance speech for the SERTOMA Service to Mankind award I felt immense pride in our little white church on the corner.
As she honored and named all those saints past, present and future who have been willing to serve as the hands, feet and heart of Jesus through St. Margaret's Community Outreach,
I imagined the faces of those on her list... including St. Margaret, Queen of Scots.

Catherine's words

"I would love to introduce you to all those who will carry on after we stop.
They are not all here. They are writing term papers; they are studying for exams; they are selling lemonade and playing baseball; some are yet to be born. I am proud to represent those who will inherit the torch we pass and accept this honor on their behalf" brought tears to my eyes.

I know some of the youth and children Catherine is talking about - the ones who have generously reached out to those in need through the support of the programs and ministry of St. Margaret's Community Outreach.

Just last week, first-grade student, Turner Garrett sold hotdogs to raise funds for outreach. (photo page 2).

Will Cochran asked his birthday party friends to bring children's books to be donated in lieu of presents for him,

Martha Minor's birthday guests were asked to bring supplies for Paper Pantry.

Will Crafton (a.k.a. "Pumpkin Man") spends time each October with the children at Homework Helper.

Young Maggies collected toys, bottles, and diapers for Paper Pantry sent to the hospital for new mothers.

Girl scout troops have collected snacks for the backpack ministry.
and kids at Vacation Bible School have collected paper items for outreach.

Our High School students have volunteered in the after school Homework Helper and packed backpacks each week.

The list is long and dense, full of folks with compassion and passion.

For all named and unnamed... and for Catherine's leadership and vision..

I give thanks to God.

In love and respect,

During his recent spring break holiday, Turner Garrett directed the effort to operate a “Weenie Stand” in the parking lot of his grandfather’s pharmacy in Carrollton. Turner donated the proceeds of his efforts to the programs which benefit children conducted by St. Margaret’s Community Outreach. Turner is a first-grader at Oak Mountain Academy. Shown above is Turner attending the “Weenie Stand;” shown right are Turner and 5-year-old brother Will Garrett, who assisted him in his fund-raiser. Turner and Will are sons of Joe and Ali Garrett of Carrollton.

Congratulations to Catherine Gordon, our Outreach Director, our Outreach program and our church supporters. Catherine is the recipient of three major awards in 2010 for Service to Mankind. The first was a local award from three SERTOMA clubs, two in Carrollton and one in Bowdon for significant and meritorious service to mankind. Next , she received a higher award from SERTOMA covering the North Georgia district, a larger geographical area than the local area award. Then, she has been recently advised that she and Outreach are the Regional winner of the award covering a geographical area of 5 states. This may not be over yet as Catherine and Outreach are still in the running for the National Award covering 7 regions in the entire country. What a wonderful endorsement of Catherine and St. Margaret’s Community Outreach.

Richard Smith

I am so impressed and encouraged to witness the commitment of SERTOMA to mankind. Obviously, you clearly understand the concepts of compassion and human service. Thank you, SERTOMA, for your commitment to our human race.

I would love to introduce you to all the donors/volunteers/supporters/directors/advisors - those unselfish givers of time/resources/expertise – beside whom I have the privilege of working. They are not all here. They are performing their “other” jobs, donating to other causes, directing and participating in other events. They are busy making good things happen. I am proud to represent them and accept this honor on their behalf.

I would love to introduce you to all those doers and thinkers, those shapers and shakers who got us to this point. They are not all here. Some have moved away; some have passed away. They have left us with a detailed job description. I am proud to represent the authors of our legacy and accept this honor on their behalf.

I would love to introduce you to all those who will carry on after we stop. They are not all here. They are writing term papers; they are studying for exams; they are selling lemonade and playing baseball; some are yet to be born. I am proud to represent those who will inherit the torch we pass and accept this honor on their behalf.

I would love to introduce you to those friends we serve. They are not here. They are all colors and all ages. Many are unemployed; many are uneducated or under-educated; some are ill; many have no transportation; some are homeless; some are hungry. All are, in some way, disadvantaged. My job is to design and deliver programs and services for our friends in need. I am proud to represent our friends in need and accept this award in their honor with my pledge to continue our work in progress.

Catherine S. Gordon, Director
St. Margaret’s Community Outreach

Discovering Sacred Space - Saturday, April 24, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Rev. John Ander Runkle, conservator of Washington National Cathedral’s building and fine arts collections, will keynote this conference on “Discovering Sacred Space” Saturday, April 24, at St. Catherine’s Episcopal Church, 571 Holt Road, Marietta. There is a need in all of us for holiness and its connection to beauty. This drives the need for sacred space. This conference has been carefully planned to open our awareness of the sacred as we find it and create it in our lives and in our environments.

The day also features workshops presented by five individuals with experience creating sacred spaces – whether internally, on the move, in the garden or in the home. A special program addresses the sacred space of young people. The Episcopal Diocese of Atlanta’s Institute for Ministry and Theological Education is sponsoring the event along with the Commission on Education.

St. Catherine's provides sacred spaces to fit their theology -- in worship, for children in Catechesis of the Good Shepherd classrooms, outdoor sacred garden and labyrinth spaces, along with an outside Stations of the Cross walking path and a youth house. Cost for the day (including lunch): $35/Adult and $15/Teen.
